

Course:

NORTH EAST TEACHING SCHOOL CLUSTER
SLE CONFERENCE:
FINDING YOUR WHY!

Course leader: Jaz Ampaw-Farr

Being a Specialist Leader of Education can be a fascinating role. Are you supporting or challenging? Listening or telling? Observing or modelling? All of the above?

This conference will provide an arena for participants to listen, to reflect, to discuss, to explain and to share information, opinions and expertise about being an SLE in our North East region of London.

We are delighted to welcome Jaz Ampaw-Farr as our keynote speaker, who will motivate, enthuse and inspire us and to help us find our WHY!

This will be followed by workshops on key themes of system leadership, including impact measures, leading change and influencing others.

By the end of the conference delegates will have had the opportunity to meet with fellow SLEs from across the region, to further investigate key aspects of the role and to ensure their role in school to school support is consistently highly effective and impactful.

Tollgate Teaching School and East London Early Years and Schools Partnership are hosting this conference on behalf of the wider North East Teaching School Cluster.

Course leader:

Jaz Ampaw-Farr is a teacher herself and has found success in life because of teachers: she wants to pay this forward by making sure teachers know how incredible they are and what an immense part they play in being 'advocates for learning'.

National Teaching School designated by

National College for Teaching & Leadership

Venue:
TBC

Course Info:
Half a day
breakfast and lunch will be provided

Course Cost:
£75 per delegate

Course Dates:
Friday 4th November 2016

Time:
8:30am – 1:00pm

Contact:
Leigh Dredge

E-mail:
leigh.dredge@
kaizen.newham.sch.uk stating your name, your role and your school.